Kellogg School Students Contribute To Town Plan

CANAAN / FALLS VILLAGE – Successful communities thrive based on input from all generations and this was recently demonstrated in Canaan / Falls Village.

As part of the process of updating the Town Plan, the Planning and Zoning Commission reached out to Kellogg School to seek artwork from students illustrating what is important to them in Canaan / Falls Village. Principal Stacey Calo embraced this opportunity and worked with all the teachers and students to prepare artwork.

Overall, almost 50 pieces of artwork were received and these may be used in the Town Plan, for community reminders, town-wide mailers, and other uses. “We are pretty excited to have the opportunity to use this artwork as part of the planning process,” said Ruth Skovron PZC member who accepted the artwork from Principal Calo.

The current POCD, which was adopted in 2013, can be found on the Town website at <https://www.canaanfallsvillage.org>.
